INSTRUCTIONAL ACTIVITY

- CSUS 200-Introduction to Sustainability (2017 to present).
Focus on “what is sustainability” and personal role in helping to create sustainable communities. Students consider societal, ecological, and economic elements of systems in light of sustainability challenges, principles and leadership skills
 - CSUS 265-Exploring Environmental Policy using Film (2012 to 2019). Examine complex ideas of environmental and natural resource policies and sustainability. Student writing and individual projects are central features of the class.
 - ESP 802-Human Systems and the Environment (2003-2011)
Core course in the university-wide doctoral specialization in Environmental Science and Policy.
 - ESA 430-Environmental & Natural Resource Law (1994-2011)
Selective course for several undergraduate majors including Environmental Studies & Sustainability (CSUS) and Environmental Economics and Policy (AFNRE).
 - SSC 490/ANR 491-Bridging Worlds: Rural and Urban Realities (2009-2011)
Joint with Cornell University via video conference. Introduce cultural, historical, socio-political, health, agricultural and development issues in southern Mexico.
 - SSC 490/ANR 475- Field Experience in Chiapas, Mexico (2009-2011)
Joint with Cornell University in Chiapas, Mexico. Hands-on learning and discussion sessions with site visits led by Mexican and US professionals from diverse disciplines.
 - ESA 480/ANR 475-Environmental Sustainability in a Green Israel (2008, 2011). A study abroad based on experiential/service learning opportunities focused on sustainable development and environmental stewardship.
- Other teaching has included:* HC 200-Honors Research Seminar; RD433-Law & Society; RD832-Natural Resource Law; RD838-Land Use Law; RD891-Wetlands Law & Policy; PRO101-Exploring Environmental Issues
